Trevor Bayne Reflects on Racing with Kyle Busch It's been well over a month since I raced with Kyle Busch and in that time it has been a fun experience. I have raced with Busch many times over the years but none as close as this. Busch's willingness to communicate was special. He even asked me to tell him what we need to talk about next time we race together. To me the biggest challenge was finding a common language. I don't have a lot of contact with NASCAR these days, but when you listen to the garage talk, it sounds like a lot of those guys were born three or four years ago. It's no wonder they're as good as they are at what they do. The stuff that doesn't translate is the feelings. There isn't a lot of common ground there but that's what makes these guys so good. They're good with people, they're good with each other, they're respectful and they never forget that these drivers are people too. With all of the media attention on Busch this season, you might expect me to make a big deal about it. It isn't that I haven't thought about it before. Some people have expressed surprise when they hear I'm really not that crazy about him. Personally, I'm just shocked that a driver can be as popular as he is without being likeable. However, since the start of the year Kyle has been a father figure to me. It hasn't been that we're at odds with each other, but he's invited me into his personal life and that has made a huge difference for me. He's been a friend for the last four years and he's never done anything to deserve being an enemy. He just doesn't wear his emotions on his sleeve like most people in this sport do. In an interview, he will say some pretty offensive things, and then he'll smile and walk away. Kyle is the only one I know who can joke around and joke on the same track he fired the driver who got him fired. That's an ability that most of these drivers lack. Kyle is the type of guy who knows how to make other people feel good. I would have fired my assistant if he had

NOTE: This game was NOT used for the Big Ten Championship. However, the team has no complaints after playing well at places like Ohio State and at home vs. Michigan. Iowa was only 1.5-point favorites and the Hawkeyes won. I was supposed to get a Cowboys hat for the week, but I ordered it earlier in the week with the King logo and it turned out that it was a second-year logo. I have had the jersey since I was 4 years old so I loved seeing it on the field. I kept telling my dad that I wanted to get an Iowa headband and he was like, no way. I had to track him down and get one. After the game, the boys were walking to the locker rooms and one of the guys yelled, "Hey, what's up with the damn, native American symbol on your jersey!" Ummm, what the hell? Why did I put that on? Welcome to my madness, folks. --S.Z. 1. Iowa: Iowa has been as a physical and defensive team as any team in the Big Ten this season. They're currently third in the league in defense (5th in scoring defense, 16th in scoring offense). The Hawkeyes are the top-ranked defense in the conference and, at home, are averaging 51.8 ppg. 2. South Dakota: The Coyotes opened the season 0-5, but have won five straight, including Saturday's 34-24 win over Iowa State at Jack Trice Stadium. South Dakota is the highest-scoring team in the conference averaging 37.6 ppg. 3. Michigan: The Wolverines haven't been nearly as physical as they were last season, but they've still been one of the most physical teams in the conference. Michigan has been the most physical team in the Big Ten, averaging 32.6 ppg. In conference, they're first in tackles per game (33.3), second in rush defense and sacks, third in passing yards allowed per game (264.3) and fourth in scoring offense (33.3). 4. Minnesota: The Golden Gophers are third in the Big Ten in rushing offense (268.8 ypg) and third in scoring offense (30.0 ppg) and have won four straight. Minnesota's six wins over ranked opponents this season are the most in the Big Ten.
