Features: • Quick and easy access to comprehensive technical data for diagnostics and repair • Job-cards with digital signatures, inventory control, barcode/VIN .Q: Where are the errors in this Python 3.3 code? I'm trying to write some Python code on 2.7.6 but there seems to be a problem with my code.

import operator
def priority(op):
def f(g, x):
return op(x, g(x))
return f
def f3(y):
x = y + 1
return x
def f4(y):
return f3(y) + 4
def f5(y):
return f4(y - 1)
print(priority(operator.gt))(f5(1))
```

 I want to get an error message at the print statement. This is the error I am getting:

Traceback (most recent call last):
File "C:\Users\admin\Desktop\test.py", line 16, in print(priority(operator.gt))(f5(1))
TypeError: priority() missing 1 required positional argument: 'y'
```

 A: When you call `f5(1)`, `f5` returns `None` because it has no return statement. Then when you pass that to `priority` and call it on `None`, you get a `TypeError`. You need to return the result of `f4`

def f4(y):
return f3(y) + 4

 or just

```
def f4(y):
return f3(y) + 4
```

 Q: A nontrivial

question of simple extensions
