One thing I have found is that, before creating an instance of NSUserDefaults I should use: NSUserDefaults *dictionary = [NSUserDefaults standardUserDefaults]; and that method (standardUserDefaults) will set the dictonary to store the settings from the currently running project. In order to do this I need to know what project is running the application. Is it possible to know what project the code is running in? A: Have a look at the file(s) selected in the Debug navigator. Use NSLog(@"Name of the project is: %@", [debugger currentExecutable]); David Best (engineer) David Best (c.1886 – 27 March 1958) was an English civil engineer and a pioneer in the design of major public housing projects. David Best was the son of Thomas Best, a mining surveyor. He was a partner of Thomas Cozens and Co., civil engineers based at Lambeth. He was educated at King's College School, Cambridge and the University of London, receiving a degree in civil engineering in 1913. He retired in 1942.
