Volume 3 Story: What's the Point Raygun had no idea what was happening. The half-man, half-pet familiar was a centuries old concept and a true secret in the world of Sentia. The origins of the archetype actually came from the scientific discovery of the Otherworld, opening a door to a parallel dimension where remnants of the humanity's distant past lived alongside of the other Sentians that called this world home. One of these remnants had actually been effectively trapped long ago as a little boy with no other option than to bond with a tame owl. Raygun was still trying to figure out the best way to deal with the situation when some alarm was heard in another room. The people and the Place seemed to be falling asleep following some meal in the common dining hall; the kind of meal no-one really enjoyed. The night in the royal palace was full of weird music and dancing, none of which really happened to be any kind of Sentian traditions. But Raygun knew what he had to do. He was the Ruler's pet; he could just call for help when needed. Raygun was under no particular pressure to think about what he was doing, he just did it. His strong, talon-like fingers closed around the slim stone beads that Raygun's teachers were so fond of using. There was only one more difficulty: to open that lock, Raygun needed not only knowledge, but also mental strength. When opening that sacred bead lock, the brave half-pet had quickly made his choice. Too bad he had to wake the entire Place. Well, Raygun figured that he might as well have a good time while he was sleeping. The heavy wooden door swung open, letting the sounds of music and singing out loud. The doors were normally closed during the night, even if there was no-one alive in the kitchen. For those who had been under their influence, the distress caused by the unexpected noise would have been really unbearable. Unfortunately for Raygun, he was indeed the only one in the common dining hall that night. Wish you all a perfect day! The group of people that would become the "Shining Song Starnova", the first major troupe of the Starnova Pantheon, was born from the big bang that would be the famous

You control Chrono, a combatant who has the unique ability to control the time element, allowing him to control battles using close-quarter combat skills and to finish off enemies with a heavy arsenal of firearms imbued with natural elements. Use fire, ice, electricity, and poison to unleash an incredible amount of combat combinations and strategies to overcome your opponents, while experiencing the ultra-realistic graphics powered by the Unreal Engine with Ray Tracing. The idea for the game came from the references: Film "Project Power" (Netflix 2020) that tells the story of a world where humans awaken magical powers when they ingest power pills. Devil My Cry series, mechanics of

Hack and Slash. The Division, mix of elements of third person shooting and RPG. Dark Souls, boss mechanics and dodge. HISTORY Humanity has discovered a mineral that can be used to strengthen the human body. This mineral can awake a natural element in the person's body, making him immune to almost anything that is harmful, including firearms. For some people it can grant powerful control over some elements. The formula that is used to make this mineral strengthen humans had become a powerful tool for corporations and organizations to earn money, and eventually it became an uncontrolled fever worldwide. Decades later, humanity begins to fall. The overuse of the mineral had caused diseases, loss of consciousness among other bizarre side effects. However, for groups that have the pure form of the mineral, they were able to evolve their physical capacity to unbelievable levels. Without governments, the conflict is managed by big and powerful companies that control the extraction and research of the mineral. The society as we know has collapsed. Private armies, terrorist groups, rebel factions and dozens of lost addicts wander the cities that are at war for controlling the mineral. Civilians are trapped in their homes. The game starts in the ruins of a metropolis, in the distant future, after a great war that ended the last democratic government in the world. You play Chrono, a former fighter from the last government who escaped from a research lab where he was a victim of experiments with Elementite. Chrono has awakened the unique ability to use the element of time and is now hunted for it. MENTIONS From visual arts to photography, please follow
