Photoshop's Features Photoshop's tools are accessible by clicking on the toolbox in the upper-right of the canvas. The toolbar is customizable so that you can customize it with custom tools. The main tools are located in the toolbox and the second group is the layers toolset, which allows you to move, scale, and crop layers. The menu bar on the left allows you to access many features in Photoshop. The image adjustments panel, the styles panel, and the effects panel are all grouped together and correspond to a feature type, which makes this an easy way to access and edit these tools. The Image menu allows you to crop, rotate, and flatten images. The History tab allows you to view and delete history commands. The Help tab provides detailed information about the features of the program. The window menu allows you to resize the image, to use the tools on new windows, and to create a new window. The Layers panel allows you to add, move, rotate, and resize layers. The Paths panel allows you to create paths. The Palette allows you to see color information, channels, and transparency. The Linked Files panel allows you to link between the main image and one or more images. The Behavior panel allows you to change the way an object responds to the user. The Pattern panel allows you to create patterns. The Object menu allows you to create a shape, image, or text. The Measurements allows you to calibrate a camera. The Paths panel allows you to create, delete, and transform paths. The Effects panel allows you to create and modify effects. The Shadows panel allows you to control shadows. The Stroke panel allows you to edit and create a type of stroke that you can use as a brush. The Styles panel allows you to create and edit styles. The Underlying Layers panel allows you to open up the pixels of the current layer. The Web allows you to access web pages through the browser. Each tool in the menu has options that allow you to adjust the settings of that tool. A set of default settings is available on the Camera Raw panel that allows you to modify the appearance of an image (add noise, sharpen, tone down, darken, saturate, desaturate, equalize, and more). For more advanced editing and tweaking, a Basic panel will usually have additional tools available for modifying colors, fixing the image, and applying or removing

Lass-Toppen Lass-Toppen is a municipality in Nordland county, Norway. It is part of the Indre Fannes Municipality. The administrative centre of the municipality is the village of Haltenes. Other villages in the municipality include Hellnedal, Nørby, and Rødstrand. There are no locks in the village of Vågan to keep the boats out of the lakes. The municipality is the 441st largest by area out of the 422 municipalities in Norway. Lass-Toppen is the 435th most populous municipality in Norway with a population of 1,181. The municipality's population density is and its population has decreased by 9.1% over the last decade. General information The parish of Toppen was established as a municipality on 1 January 1964, when it was separated from the large municipality of Fannes. Initially, the new Lass municipality consisted of all of the island of Toppen, with the four southernmost islands in the municipality of Fannes. The largest island in the municipality was Rødstrand, followed by Hellesvær, Toppen, and Ørknesøya. Name The Old Norse form of the name was Vatnø. The first element is vatn (backwater) and the last element is nøy (island). The name was probably the name of the main body of water in the municipality. The first element means backwater (cf. lake) and the last element is island (cf. island). The last element is the definite form of ny which means "island" (cf. Nyland, Nytrøya, Nyhamna, etc.). Coat-of-arms The coat-of-arms was granted in 1990. The arms show a silver seahorse on a green background. The seahorse is symbolizing the importance of shipping in this area. The arms have been represented by the municipality since 1960. Churches The Church of Norway has two parishes (sokn) within the municipality of Lass. It is part of the Nord-Helgeland prosti (deanery) in the Diocese of Sør-Hålogaland. History What is today the municipality of Lass was
