The PTI spokesperson tweeted: "It is clearly malicious. They are using their forces in a malicious way." In a related development, the Jammu and Kashmir administration on Sunday ordered the release of JKLF chairman Yasin Malik and his associates. Malik and his associates had been arrested in August last year for being part of the Tehreek-i-Hurriyat Conference (TMC). The Jammu and Kashmir administration said in a statement that they have been released on parole to facilitate their affiliation. The statement said that the JKLF chairperson Yasin Malik and his associates were released from the Kathua custody on June 7 and those of them arrested in 2016-17 from the Udhampur jail will be released in the coming days. The Jammu and Kashmir administration had issued a notification on August 7 to prohibit Malik from entering the state on the grounds that he was not a permanent resident of the state, the PTI had claimed. The TMC had announced last month that the party will take part in upcoming elections. PTI and the JKLF have been at loggerheads since 2014.The invention relates to a honeycomb monolithic catalyst body, comprising a honeycomb body comprising a network of passages or cells and at least one catalyst layer applied on the side of the honeycomb body which is facing away from the combustion zone. Cameras are pervasive in today's society. It is not unusual for someone to have a camera device with them at all times. With the prevalence of digital cameras and video recorders, people are also using their digital camera or video recorder more often to capture their daily activities and events. For many people, the transition from analog to digital photography is uncomfortable. People still like to keep a collection of their favorite analog photographs. However, it is often more practical and convenient to simply capture new digital photographs and videos. Thus, many people are replacing their existing analog cameras with digital cameras. With the introduction of ubiquitous wireless networks and Internet-based connectivity to Internet and cellular telephones, people also have the option to transmit their photo and video content over public networks to third parties. One particularly popular application is to send an image or video file to a web-based service. Some services, such as Kodak® Flickr® and many others, have posted pictures on their web site from uploaded images. However, with the ease of capturing image and video files, the quality of the captured content has reduced. This is particularly true when people capture their mobile phone camera images, as the camera settings on mobile phones are typically not as optimized as a professional camera.Pages Dinner Lady Tuesday, March 6, 2012 As the warmer months have started, spring has really appeared to be all around us, so I have been looking for new uses for my produce, as well as thinking about new ways to enjoy eating good food. I recently found an article about eating produce from the farm gate and thought it would be a good subject for my weekly blog. The more I learn about produce being sold on the farm, and about the farmers themselves, the more I feel so much better about eating produce. This is something so simple, but yet so hard to do when I was a kid. I always asked for cheese or a baked potato or whatever at dinnertime. Never did I realize that those foods are grown from a field right where I was standing, or that there were people who worked really hard to grow them. I was lucky enough to grow up with a wonderful mom who was not only amazing at learning new things, she was also a foodie! Every couple of weeks she would take me to the farm to help out with the day to day of processing tons of cucumbers, harvesting the corn and tomatoes, and so much more. I can still see her saying "Don't touch that tomato
