VR Sports features immersive table tennis gameplay, with proper spin on both sides of the court. From the sweetest backspin, to the fastest slicing, the action is shown in a beautiful, immersive virtual reality video stream! You'll need to be alert, precise, and quick to succeed, or you'll lose. Compete for the title of highest player on VR Sports, or use a buddy system with your virtual trainer to receive a fair and competitive challenge. Our goal was to create the ultimate experience for VR Sports, and our fans have justly responded. Don't let VR Sports be the last true sports game in VR. Be a ping pong ninja, and let VR Sports be your social gym. Game Features: - Full-featured table tennis game - 3 difficulty levels - VR Training mode for beginners - Compete for the title of highest player on VR Sports - Game can be played with a buddy system, and works as a multiplayer game - Can be used with a keyboard or a gamepad - Goal setting by the VR Sports team, and feedback from their fans make the game's competitive nature truly authentic - A great experience for VR Sports VR Sports was created by the VR Sports Team, a group of VR Sports fans, and supported by the fans' feedback. By using the original aesthetics and audio of the 1992 movie, we strived to provide an experience that truly brings you to the scene of the movie. Our goal was to provide the best Table Tennis experience possible in VR. Release VR Sports has been in development for almost 3 years now. We made our first post-development public trailers a couple of months ago and released those trailers on our Facebook page. The fans took to VR Sports like no other game before it and gave us a lot of great feedback on the trailer. That feedback and the community's demand for the game has driven this game to completion, and we are extremely excited about it. We do not have a release date for the game right now, but can confirm it is already available on Steam, Oculus Home and other major VR platforms. We're working on an iOS version and some PSVR version, but those are not confirmed just yet. We are also looking into a PS4 version, but there are no current plans for that. Let's hear it for VR Sports! This is Gabriel "Gabo" Carroza from the VR Sports Team. c9d1549cdd

Some of the site features, such as user profiles, a blog, forums and virtual gifts were provided by third-party services, such as Hyves and Technorati. Users could pay to upgrade their site to a premium account that included increased storage space and a logo, as well as extra features, such as a weather forecast. The websites were not hosted by Geocities itself; rather, they were stored on a web server and accessible via the internet. The service was discontinued in 2009 and the domain name has now expired. Details[edit] The term 'Geocities' was first used by Tim O'Reilly in August 1998, when he noted that Internet users had "built personal web pages using free services like the early Altavista, Lycos, and HotBot, and then, when the Web went free, Geocities." After founding the company, O'Reilly stated that he knew of "more than a thousand little businesses who are making money off of people's Geocities pages." Geocities began selling advertising space on the service in 1999. In October 2000, Internet retailer Amazon.com became one of the Geocities' sponsors. Geocities was one of the largest users of Amazon's web services, and Geocities-sponsored links from Amazon would recommend mode features - portrait The latest in Kattech 4K Ultra HD recording. Renowned for its stylish all-in-one design, the all-in-one 4K security system offering panoramic, 90° sensor and lifelike images. Secure and monitor your home with superior video quality, day and night. 4K Ultra HD recording, motion detection, virtual assistant 4K Ultra HD 4k monitor, video monitoring and DVR capabilities. The most flexible, stylish, and easy to use security system designed for the 21st Century. 7 7 Product Gallery Camera: The 4K Ultra HD camera uses Sony's HEVC 13-megapixel image sensor to deliver ultra-high resolution images at up to 45 frames per second in 4k UHD (3840 x 2160). 4K UHD is the high-definition variant of Ultra HD, which features 4 times the number of pixels that conventional high definition (HD) cameras feature. Ultra-HD (UHD) is a technology that delivers a massive increase in resolution that is so large it can't be displayed in available standard definition televisions using the current standard-definition television formatting (NTSC) 60Hz delivery of video. Front Curtain: Sony's Exmor R CMOS sensor is embedded in a 1/4-inch-thick light weight aluminum frame which dramatically reduces the overall system profile. Sound Sensor: The sound sensor technology in the camera works to identify the movement of people and pets just as other home security systems do. Because the camera is silent, it won't notify pets in the house that someone is in the vicinity, so you will be able to enjoy peace of mind knowing your home is protected. Night Vision: When selecting the Night Vision setting, choose between 200lux or 400 lux for accurate night vision monitoring of your surroundings. Wireless cameras can be up to 100m away from a dedicated receiver, and 100m with the linked receiver. If you are attached to a wireless device, you can use the IR (infrared) to see up to 200meters when using these transmitter settings. Remote Viewing: In Remote Viewing mode, you can send images from your camera to your smartphone, tablet, PC or any smart device with a Wi-Fi

She loved listening to Chinese music and she adored the sound of dragons, of course. From the beginning, Mom taught us to respect our Japanese side. It was Dad who first decided K.N. should do English instead of Chinese. It was not because she was weak on Chinese, but rather, it was because she longed to be a worldly person. She found it difficult to accommodate herself to Chinese culture, so to her, a Japanese only household was much more suitable. Dad advised me in this matter. He taught me to not meddle in K
