The Game School Fab Lab VR, is the first virtual reality designed by K12 educators for K12 educators. School Fab Lab VR is free and open source with no monetization. The game was developed by the Game School in Toronto, Canada, and has been used in collaboration with schools across the US, Canada and the UK. School Fab Lab VR is also a huge online community of educators. We started by enabling educators to watch and share 3D-printing process with other educators and end-users through our online documentation. We expanded to other topics, including tutorials and virtual-learning games. We have a wide range of apps that educate on the same topics with educational video content created by K12 educators. In addition, our apps reach early learners with the Sesame Workshop apps Dino Lab VR and Sesame Street Fab Lab VR. More about the Pivot VR App: The Pivot VR App is our most advanced open source virtual reality. This VR app allows you to: * Fly a drone in a virtual space * Build a digital space station * Explore other planets * Create your own 3D printer in VR * Change the dimensions, 3D print your digital space station in a wide range of size and shape The Pivot VR App is free and open source. It is available on all the major VR platforms, including: Steam, Oculus Go, Google Daydream, Samsung Gear VR, Android and iOS. Mission: Our mission is to bring education to all. We are reinventing learning in a digital world through the use of VR. Our goal is to open the door to learning in a new environment and a new way. We have a wide range of apps that educate on the same topics with educational video content created by K12 educators. We create and manage open source and free content. We work in collaboration with teachers, engineers, entrepreneurs and technologists. We are driven by giving back to our community. We invite you to get involved and help us transform how teachers and students learn, develop and share. Partners: Sesame Workshop Apps: More about the Games: We create and manage open source and free content. We work in collaboration with teachers, engineers, entrepreneurs and technologists. She couldn't change what had happened nor do she wish to forget this for a minute. Yes! she felt the name of the person all right—Leon. It was the a testimony of the guilt, the lavish life; it was the sign of the rottenness. Leandor. Yet she wouldn't forget it. It would be the mental stress that killed her finally, causing her stomach to burn and then vomit to jell and dry. Everything was slow, but she felt the moment when the "I love you" became a reality. She couldn't hold back the tears that covered her face. She looked straight to the ground, afraid that she might pop off soon. She wanted to be sick, but she didn't feel like it. It was her final way of escaping from

I have an app with a resource model 'job' that includes an image property. I want to be able to access the image of the job in my views without having to fetch it from the local filesystem by doing this: `job.image` where job is defined in the model as follows:

class Job(db.Model): name = db.StringProperty(required = True) position = db.StringProperty(required = True) image = db.ImageProperty(required = would provide the ants more vitamins and nutrients like iron, amino acids, fatty acids, and others that help them survive. A: There is a unique song produced by ants that consists of chains of sounds, whose authorship is disputed. It starts with a spider web and ends with a call made by an ant. The sounds in the middle are often speculated about as being the same sounds as a pheromone. Some of these are insect noises, such as a mating call, and some are humming - also sometimes called buzzing, or buzz - more intended than communicative. A: Snowball Two signals have been named this, Buzz(as not to be confused with nest vibration sounds), and, of course, Snowball. I don't know if it's intentional or not, but I quite like to imagine the creation of Snowball as a response to the popularity of Hive/Royal jelly. Snowball The name comes from the color of it's nest... "a colorful sprinkling of anemones, daisies and lichens." Buzz Described as "hysterical and overbearing" and "aimed at the colony's master ant," the sounds are said to emanate from a single individual and can be heard in "all stages and castes of workers", although it appears to be only heard by queens and not workers. Supposedly, in insects "henceforward, a buzzing sound... begins to
