Minsk mayor appointed to re-draft Belarus' 2014 budget President Alyaksandr Lukashenka has appointed a mayor from the capital Minsk to re-draft the country's 2014 budget, the government announced in a statement on state-run television.

According to the statement, Minsk has a population of 1.2 million and is the administrative center of the Mogilev Region. The 42-year-old Shokin had two years left in office. His term had been criticised by European Union and US diplomats and the outgoing UN ambassador Jan Kubis. A website for the mayor said Shokin, a long-standing ally of Lukashenka, had "an eye for facts" and would produce an "original and creative" budget for 2014. In a statement on the website, he said it was "clear that the needs of the population have become more urgent as a result of the global economic crisis. "The draft will be based on this and will be improved by the budget document for 2012," the mayor said. He also said the draft budget would "ensure the full funding of all tasks envisaged in the State Program for the support of the population in 2014." Lukashenka, who took over the presidency after firing his prime minister and foreign minister earlier this month, has made a string of controversial and unprecedented moves in his first months as president. They include promises to lift the ban on certain Belarusian political parties and pardoning dozens of opposition members imprisoned for protests in the aftermath of the 2009 election. However, he has also drastically curtailed internet access in Belarus and a wave of arrests of opposition activists.
