NetShareMonitor is a useful utility designed to help users keep track of files, folders and drives shared over the network by monitoring statistics. It does not require prior experience with networking software, making it ideal for novices. Portability advantages Since installation is not prerequisite, the executable file can be saved to any part of the hard disk in order to run it, as well as copied to a removable storage unit and used on any PC effortlessly, without installing anything beforehand. More importantly, the tool does not modify Windows registry settings. Clean and intuitive GUI NetShareMonitor adopts a neatly organized interface, represented by a standard window divided into three main areas, for viewing active sessions, accessed and shared files, respectively. These sections are immediately populated with information at startup. View and export data Active sessions details include the remote host, user name, total opened files, along with the start, active and idle time. As far as accessed files are concerned, NetShareMonitor displays the path, user name, date and time of access, together with the access type for each file. Double-clicking the entry opens its location in Windows Explorer. Last but not least, shared files information contains the name, description, total connections, and full path for each item. This data can be exported to HTML, XML or CSV format, while log details can be generated for the active sessions and accessed files. Conclusion The tool shows accurate details and leaves a small footprint on system resources. We have not come across any problems throughout our tests, as NetShareMonitor did not hang, crash or show errors. It gets the job done and can be easily used, although it does not feature advanced settings. Portable NetShareMonitor Details: - Smaller installation size than its online counterpart, as the executable file is packed to be installed without the need to install any additional software. - Automatically notifies about Windows domain events. It automatically contacts a specified domain administrator about changes to the state of Windows shares. - Utility can be used on any Windows XP, Windows Vista, Windows 7, Windows 8 PC. - Automatic synchronization feature. - Export of shared items in HTML, XML and CSV formats. - Statistics for currently running sessions and currently opened files. - Detailed log file details. - Windows XP, Vista, Windows 7, Windows 8. - Freeware. - Downloads NetShareMonitor - Free version from source. - Language English. - Download NetShareMonitor

What's New In Portable NetShareMonitor?

NETSHAREMONITOR - a tool for convenient monitoring and navigation of network shared folders, drives, printers and applications. NETSHAREMONITOR has a unique interface and user-friendly functionality. NETSHAREMONITOR is very useful as it will keep track of every node which is shared on the network, and keep a log of the entire network. NETSHAREMONITOR can run on any type of Windows 2000, Windows XP, Windows Server 2003, Windows Server 2008 x64 or Windows 7.

NETSHAREMONITOR is both a windows and a network wide... with the more the number of the PCs connected to your network, the more the number of the data transfer through the network. Also it will be a factor that will affect to the reliability and speed of your network. 1. Aggregate speeds. Aggregate speeds is the measure of network capacity. To read more about aggregate speeds, go to this link. 2. Bandwidth. Bandwidth is the measure of how much data can be transmitted or received per unit time. In general, bandwidth is measured in bits per second. It is important to know the bandwidth of your network because the quality of video and audio, which is transmitted, depends on the bandwidth. 3. Bandwidth utilization. When data is transmitted over your network, it can be transferred in either large amounts at one time (high bandwidth utilization) or in small amounts of data at a time (low bandwidth utilization). It is very important to know the bandwidth utilization of your network to keep an eye on how your network is used. 4. Data transfer. Data transfer is the transfer of data, either from your PC to the network or from your network to your PC. Data transfer between PCs can be between a host PC and client PCs, or between host PCs. Data transfer speeds can be affected by data transfer, type of network, number of PCs connected to your network, etc. 5. Data transfer range. Data transfer ranges are the farthest distance between a PC and the closest PC. Only one PC can communicate with other PCs through the network at a time, so the data transfer range determines how many PCs can be connected to the network. Each PC has a data transfer range of one network card at most. 6. Distribution range. Network distribution range is the farthest distance from a central switch a device can receive a communication signal. Distances between the PCs and the network switch varies and is determined by your network configuration. 7. Connection numbers.
