The one that gives me a.A sheet with a fine narrow thread wound in continuous or convolved helically around and between the threads at high speed under tension to produce a striated effect in the yarn, as by false twist or otherwise, is known as a metallizing process. In the prior art, U.S. Pat. Nos. 3,739,835; 3,931,829 and 4,002,013 disclose metallizing processes utilizing fine filaments and a combination of metallized and nonmetallized filaments. Other prior art patents disclosing metallizing processes are U.S. Pat. Nos. 2,705,902; 2,803,172; 3,102,021; 3,188,506; 3,296,620; 3,478,564; 3,591,474; 3,713,629; 3,907,584 and 4,018,964. In the prior art, as exemplified by the last six of the above named patents, the individual filaments are melt spun and metallized by one of various techniques, such as in a tumbler or by a nozzle, and then coalesced with other filaments which are nonmetallized. The combined yarns are then wound on a package and cut to length or persevered in a spool. at the foot of the mountain. People must cross a small stream here to get up to the main trail. The river is in a cave and starts with a lot of cracks and ridges. Then the water slowly starts getting bigger as it takes the road. Next, the river will split into two large pools which are separated by a stone wall that tumbles down. After about 5km, the river is getting a little bit smaller and there are lots of limestone pebbles covering
