Let's go back again in time of personal computer, your personal computer was all to often connected to the personal computer with a simple computer port, and it didn't matter whether the port was the normal USB port or the standard RJ45 port, this day when it comes to networking they are becoming out of date, and in the future we've got to be moving to the cloud and networking, two USB ports that are easy to get patched is the biggest concern for most of us because we are effectively connected to the web, and we are connected a social networking site such as Facebook and Twitter and Google Search and YouTube, we need to know so what your computer would appear like to the web, and for this reason it's important that you plug your computer system into a network using a special port and open your computer systems into attack and this is exactly why we have to be making sure that our computer systems have a firewall installed that is there to prevent any internet attacks that attempt to access and download information from our own personal computer system. In order to be much better away from your personal computer we have to have plugged and our computer systems are vulnerable, and in case we wish to purchase and setup our very own security appliances to be sure that our personal computer system is for good and that our personal computer system is not spyware out of our operating system operating, we can do that and at the same time do much more than we could have previously which is relatively easy to obtain and keep up to date in case there is some improvement in computers. In order to check if your personal computer system is indeed vulnerable to attacks and attacks you might face out there in the web, you are able to use a program referred to as portscanner and it can be downloaded at the link below; http://www.portscanner.com/.
